

Irresistibly absurd

Otto

FRODO DE DECKER

Otto is a friendly young man who ends up in the most impossible situations. He's charming but naïve, as well as a bit helpless: he's forced to undergo whatever his creative father comes up with. And so he lands on top of a whale and inside a zeppelin; he meets gnomes, gets into a fight with Martians and experiences Purgatory. Each story seems more absurd than the next, but they're all highly entertaining.

A terrific, surreal and compelling story

CUTTING EDGE

This humorous and text-free story by artist and writer Frodo De Decker is extremely fast-paced. De Decker's humour explores the boundaries of the (im)possible, but remains disarmingly innocent at the same time. The small, visually strong drawings are full of surprising and sometimes enchanting jokes. And while the drawing style may be reminiscent of the tradition of the clear line, De Decker also takes it into an entirely different direction. Otto's world is one of weird trains of thought and unexpected twists and turns. Its warm heart immediately draws the reader in.

De Decker keeps us spellbound throughout his wordless and extremely funny debut.

KNACK

AUTHOR

Frodo De Decker (b. 1981) is a Flemish cartoonist and illustrator. His first full-length book came out in 2012 and marked the beginning of a successful series about Otto, which has since also been published in Chinese and French. Subsequently De Decker created a comic book in a medieval setting, 'The Knight', which is published in P-Magazine, Eppo and Veronica Magazine. He also works as a freelance illustrator for various Flemish publishers.

ORIGINAL TITLE Otto (2012, Syndikaat, 48 pp.)

FORMAT 304 x 216

RIGHTS SOLD Simplified Chinese (Shen Yang Fang Zhou Culture Media Co.), French (Paquet)

TRANSLATION RIGHTS The author is the rights holder. Please contact us to obtain their contact details.

TRANSLATION GRANTS Lien Devos - lien@flandersliterature.be