

Thrilling account of a spectacular knock-out race

The Fantastic Flying Competition

SEBASTIAAN VAN DONINCK & TJIBBE VELDKAMP

Ten teams line up at the start of the Flying Competition for Birds. They're all bursting to win, except that Team Owl has overslept yet again. During the race, the competitors find themselves in difficulties one by one. Team Flamingo never gets off the ground, Team Hawk leaves its plane by ejector seat and Team Ostrich-Penguin crashes. It's a real knock-out race, with only Team Chicken apparently spared. Or are the chickens not completely playing fair, determined as they are to go home with the cup? Their sabotage is quickly discovered, and they're blocked by the other teams just short of the finish. No winner this year then. Or has another formidable competitor been overlooked?

AUTHORS

Sebastiaan Van Doninck (b. 1979) is a master at drawing animals with human characteristics, capturing them on paper with humour and graceful elegance. He works both digitally and traditionally, tailoring his colours to the atmosphere of the story. Van Doninck aims for a personal, honest style: content and emotion come first. His pictures look fresh and have a cheerful, rather nostalgic atmosphere. But there's always something lurking in the shadows; his cheerfulness has a dark edge. He knows exactly how to create a dazzling universe and has been winning plaudits for it all over the world. Photo © Patrick Verbeeck Tjibbe Veldkamp (b. 1962) has been a successful Dutch children's book author for more than twenty years. He commands practically all genres, from the picture book to the young adult novel, and has received a number of prizes. His work often involves the experience of thrilling adventures, or being naughty. Photo © Chris van Houts
