

NONFICTION

A profound analysis of how culture and society affect our mental well-being

Discontent

PAUL VERHAEGHE

A feeling of discontent is part of our humanity. Despite prosperity on all fronts, the unrest in our society is increasing. In this book, Paul Verhaeghe shows that every era has its own sense of discontent, with its typical problems – such as burn-outs, imposter syndrome and fear of being excluded.

Radical and downright terrifying questions, that could just as easily lead to a welcome social progress.

DE STANDAARD

How can we characterise our society, in what ways does it define us as individuals, and what discontent results from it? Are there verifiable explanations for this discontent, in the practice of healthcare, education and labour organisation? In Discontent, Paul Verhaeghe opts for a scientifically backed analysis, averse to ideology-based critiques and utopian solutions. In his recognisably smooth and accessible style, he guides us past insights about these times and expectations for our future.

Freud's insights on discontent and culture bring Paul Verhaeghe to a critique of our neoliberal society

KNACK

Adam Phillips' psychological expertise meets Paul Mason's political engagement.

AUTHOR

Paul Verhaeghe (b. 1955) is a clinical psychologist, psychoanalyst and a professor at the University of Ghent. With 'Between Hysteria and Woman' and 'On Normality and Other Aberrations' he achieved international recognition as an expert on Freud and Lacan. With Love in Times of Loneliness he reaches a broad audience, and has done that with his books ever since.

ORIGINAL TITLE Onbehagen (2023, De Bezige Bij, 285 pp.)

TRANSLATION RIGHTS Marijke Nagtegaal - m.nagtegaal@debezigebij.nl

TRANSLATION GRANTS Patrick Peeters - patrick@flandersliterature.be