

A lonely fox cub and a mother hen with a heart of gold

Robber's Cub

JEF AERTS & MARTIJN VAN DER LINDEN

Chicken Vera is the only one of the flock to survive a fox's raid, because she's sitting on eggs. Next to the barn she finds a frightened fox cub that has lost its hunting mother. She knows she really ought to chase the cub away, but her motherly heart is too big. She hides him under her wings and names him Spark. Spark grows up along with her chicks. But when the other hens turn against Vera's adopted cub, she leaves the chicken run along with him. In the outside world their relationship seems less natural than they imagined and eventually Vera returns to the farm. Will she ever see Spark again?

Playful, inventive and magnificently illustrated story

Martijn van der Linden (b. 1979) is described as possibly the best animal illustrator in the Netherlands. And animals do indeed play key roles in most of his works. But Van der Linden is much more than that. He is much in demand as a cover artist due to his realistic style; in his own picture books, on the other hand, he aims for diversity in subject matter, materials, colour and style.
