

That's what dads are really like

Applesauce

KLAAS VERPLANCKE

'Applesauce' is a refreshing complement to all the picture books in which dads are always heroes. Here you see a father as he really is: he often realises his role of superdad, but occasionally he can be found lazing on the sofa and sometimes he even changes to scary and grumpy, with thunder in his voice and lightening in his hands. When he loses his rag, his son gets scared. So scared that he starts looking for a better dad. A nice dad with fingers that taste like applesauce. Dad needs some time to come round. But his son is not quick to give in, either. It takes two to make up!

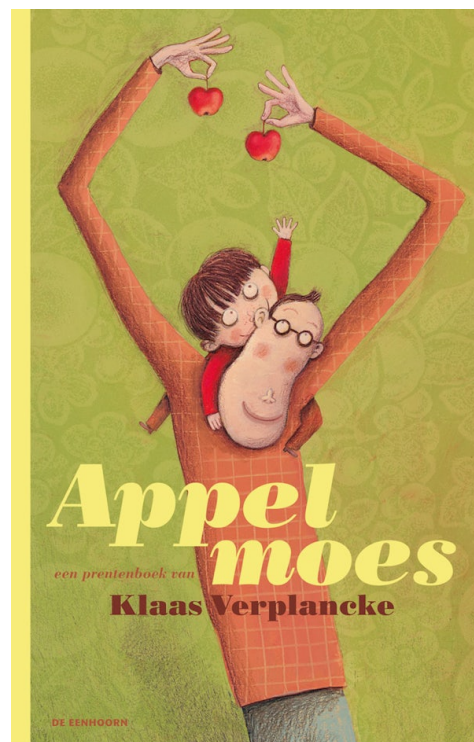

Finger-licking good!

BOEKENLEEUEW JURY

For this heart-warming book Klaas Verplancke was nominated for the prestigious Flemish children's book awards: the Boekenleeuw for the best story and the Boekenpauw for the best illustrations. Justifiably so: he finds the perfect balance between words and pictures. Not a single sentence is superfluous in this beautifully-worded story, in which applesauce is described with such imagery that you can smell and taste it. Verplancke also plays with a colour palette that wonderfully illustrates the mood and evolution of the story. A fascinating illustrated book that will appeal to old, young and younger.

An endearing daddy book

GAZET VAN ANTWERPEN

AUTHOR

Klaas Verplancke (b. 1964).

ORIGINAL TITLE Appelmoes (2012, De Eindhoven, 32 pp.)

FORMAT 300 x 190

AGE 4+

PRIZES Boekenwelp, Literature Prize of the Province West-Flanders, El Gremio de librerías de Madrid, Bronze medal at the 3X3 Picture Book Show in New York

RIGHTS SOLD English (Groundwood), Spanish (Ekaré), Danish (Turbine), Swedish (Turbine), Korean (Kyowon), Polish (Dwie Siostry), Italian (Fatatracc), Croatian (ArTresor Naklada), Ukrainian (Bobrovnikova LA), Armenian (I Can), Complex Chinese (Grimm), Simplified Chinese (Petrel), Japanese (Asahi Gakusei Shimbun Sha), Portuguese (Brazil) (Scipione), Arabic (Sphinx), Ukrainian (Bobrovnikova L.A.), Persian (NAHL)

TRANSLATION RIGHTS Sarah Claeys - sarah@booketlistagency.com

TRANSLATION GRANTS Elise Vanoosthuyse - elise@flandersliterature.be